RETAINED RIGHTS/TERMS AND CONDITIONS

General

1. Authors/employers retain all proprietary rights in any process, procedure, or article of manufacture describe in the Work.
2. Authors/employers may reproduce or authorize others to reproduce the Work, material extracted verbatim from the Work, or derivative works for the author's personal use or for company use, provided that the source and the AJODL copyright notice are indicated, the copies are not used in any way that implies AJODL endorsement of a product or service of any employer, and the copies themselves are not offered for sale.
3. In the case of a Work performed under a government contract or grant, the AJODL recognize that the government has royalty-free permission to reproduce all or portions of the Work, and to authorize others to do so, for official government purposes only, if the contract/grant so requires.
4. Although authors are permitted to re-use all or portions of the Work in other works, this does not include granting third-party request for reprinting, republishing, or other types of re-use. The AJODL secretariat must handle all such third-party request.

Author Online Use

6. Personal Servers. Authors and/or their employers shall have a right to post the accepted version of AJODL-copyrighted articles on their own personal servers or the servers of their institutions or employers without permission from AJODL, provided that the posted version includes a prominently displayed AJODL copyright notice and, when published, a full citation to the original AJODL publication. Authors shall not post the final, published versions of their papers.

7. Classroom or Internal Training Use. An author is expressly permitted to post any portion of the acceptance version of his/her own AJODL-copyrighted articles on the author's personal web site or the servers of the author's institution or company in connection with the author's teaching, training, or work responsibilities, provided that the appropriate copyright, credit, and reuse notices appear prominently with the posted material. Examples of permitted uses are lecture materials, course packs, e-reserves, conference presentations, or in-house training courses.

8. Electronic Preprints. Before submitting an article to AJODL, authors frequently post their manuscripts to their own web site, their employer's site, or to another server that invites constructive comment from colleagues. Upon submission of an article to AJODL, an author is required to transfer copyright in the article to AJODL, and the author must update any previously posted version of the article with a prominently displayed AJODL copyright notice. Upon publication of an article by the AJODL, the author must replace any previously electronic versions of the article with either (1) the full citation to the AJODL work, or (2) the accepted version only (not the AJODL-published version), including the AJODL copyright notice and full citation, with a link to the final, published article in AJODL portal.

INFORMATION FOR AUTHORS

Author Responsibilities

The AJODL distributes its publications throughout the world and wants to ensure that the material submitted to its publications is properly available to the readership of those publications. Authors must ensure that their Work meets the requirements as stated in the AJODL Guideline for Authors, including provisions covering originality, authorship, author responsibilities and author misconduct. Authors are advised especially of: "It is the responsibility of the authors, not the AJODL, to determine whether disclosure of their material requires the prior consent of other parties and, if so, to obtain it." In addition, "Statement and opinions given in work published by the AJODL are the expression of the authors."

Author/Employer Rights

If you are employed and prepared the Work on a subject within the scope of your employment, the copyright in the Work belongs to your employer as a work-for-hire. In that case, the AJODL assumes that when you sign this form, you are authorized to do so by your employer and that your employer has consented to the transfer of copyright, to the representation and warranty of publication rights, and to all other terms and conditions of this Form. If such authorization and consent has not been given to you, an authorized representative of your employer should sign this Form as the Author.

AJODL Copyright Ownership

It is the formal policy of the AJODL to own the copyrights to all copyrightable material in its publications and to the individual contributions contained therein, in order to protect the interests of the AJODL, its authors and their members, and, at the same time, to facilitate the appropriate re-use of this material by others. The AJODL distributes its publications throughout the world and does so by means of electronic media. It also abstracts and may translate its publications, and articles contained therein, for inclusion in various compendiums, collective works, databases and similar publications.
